Two of Omaha's Top Law Firms Joining Forces

Family Law Pioneer Pam Govier and team join with Katskee, Suing and Maxell, PC, LLO to form Govier, Katskee, Suing and Maxell, PC, LLO

Omaha, NE – The law firm of Govier and Milone is merging with the firm of Katskee, Suing and Maxell, PC, LLO (“KSM”) to form Govier, Katskee, Suing and Maxell, PC, LLO (“GKSM”). With a great, and growing, team of some of Omaha’s most-experienced lawyers, GKSM can offer clients a vast range of legal services and expertise needed to tackle today’s complex legal challenges, including, but not necessarily limited to: business transactions and formations; real estate sales and acquisitions; divorce, modifications and family planning; estate planning and probate; insurance defense; commercial and civil litigation; and, personal injury and workers compensation.

“We are thrilled to welcome Pam Govier and her family law team. Our goal has been to build KSM into one of Omaha’s full-service law firms, serving individuals, corporations and small businesses. With this partnership, we now count one of Omaha’s top family law attorneys as part of our team, adding even more experience and depth to our services,” Partner Benjamin E. Maxell said of the merger.

KSM is the recent predecessor of Katskee, Henatsch & Suing (“KHS”), formed over 30 years ago by Milton A. Katskee and Harry R. Henatsch. Dean F. Suing became a partner shortly thereafter. KHS’ practice began with a focus on providing insurance defense and other civil litigation representation, and grew exponentially with additional focus on estate planning, business transactions and personal injury.

Mr. Maxell bought the firm in 2015 and has since grown KSM into one of Omaha’s finest, most diverse, mid-size firms, serving individuals, families, and small businesses with an expanded array of legal services. Mr. Maxell’s experience spans all areas of civil and commercial litigation, and includes work at multiple trial court and appellate levels.

When she began her family law career in the early 1980's, Ms. Govier was one of the few female family law attorneys in the Midwest. Now, she's one of the best. Pam is a fellow of the American Academy of Matrimonial Lawyers – one of just a handful in the state of Nebraska.

“The Govier team is looking forward to this new venture with the accomplished attorneys at Katskee, Suing & Maxell. We are excited about continuing the momentum that Ben and his team have built. Together, we look forward to growing GKSM into one of Omaha's best and biggest law firms,” Partner Pam Govier stated.

“What's more, we're already up and running together -- our current clients can expect a seamless transition,” Govier added.

GKSM is located in the Regency area of Omaha at 10404 Essex Court, Suite 100. GKSM became official as of January 1, 2017.

The entire Govier family law team will be a part of the new GKSM, LLO. And that means the same great customer service and best-in-class legal representation for clients of both firms. Plus, an array of expanded services and expertise in nearly every area of law.

Govier, Katskee, Suing and Maxell, PC, LLO is a law firm based in Omaha serving many counties throughout the state of Nebraska. The attorneys at GKSM have over 200 years of combined legal experience, and are experts in multiple facets of the law.
